The Road to the Supreme Court:
Octane Fitness, LLC v. Icon Health & Fitness, Inc.

Wednesday, January 29, 2014
12:00 p.m. – 2:00 p.m.
Bryan Cave Moot Courtroom (Anheuser-Busch Hall, Room 310)
1.8 MCLE Credits

To help prepare Rudy Telscher of Harness Dickey for his U.S. Supreme Court oral argument on behalf of Octane Fitness, Washington University School of Law is hosting a special moot court program:

- 12:00-12:15 – “PATENT TROLL 101” with Kevin Collins, Professor of Law
- 12:15-1:15 – MOOT COURT; Panelists include:
  - Scott Baker, Professor of Law and Professor of Economics
  - Charles Burson, Senior Lecturer in Law
  - Pauline Kim, Charles Nagel Professor of Law
  - Bruce La Pierre, Professor of Law; Director, Appellate Clinic
  - Greg Magarian, Professor of Law
  - Mary Perry, Lecturer in Law
  - Neil Richards, Professor of Law
- 1:15 – Q & A WITH THE PANEL AND ATTORNEYS

The issue before the Court is the proper interpretation of the Patent Act’s fee-shifting statute, 35 U.S.C. Section 285. The case is being closely watched because of its potential impact on patent “troll” litigation.

All Washington University School of Law faculty, staff and students are invited to attend. Attendees will be required to show identification and sign a confidentiality statement.

For more information, contact Elizabeth Walsh, Associate Dean for Student Services, at ewalsh@wulaw.wustl.edu or (314) 935-5861.